

Women's Studies Group 1558-1837

The Women's Studies Group 1558-1837 is a multi-disciplinary group formed to promote women's studies in the early modern period and long eighteenth century.

Benefits of membership include:

- Regular seminars, sometimes at The Foundling Museum, London, and sometimes via secure Zoom seminars
- Priority booking and preferential rates for our annual workshop
- A members-only annual outing to a relevant location, often featuring an exclusive or 'behind-the-scenes' tour (donations or entry fees may apply)
- A mailing list informing members of conferences/events/publications in the field and other news
- Active promotion of your research via the WSG's website and our social media accounts
- Great networking and mentoring opportunities

I wish to subscribe until 1st September 2023. By completing and returning this form I give permission to the WSG committee to use my details, to contact me about my membership; to add me to the WSG e-mailing list; and for general administrative purposes to do with the activities of the group. I am happy for my details to be stored until I am no longer a member of the group.
